

Old and New Problems in Combinatorial Game Theory

Malgorzata Bednarska-Bzdęga,
Faculty of Mathematics and Computer Sciences, Adam Mickiewicz University,
Poznan, Poland
<mailto:mbed@amu.edu.pl>

Abstract:

Suppose X is a finite set and A is a collection of subsets of X . Two players select in turns elements of X . The first player wins if and only if he collects all elements of at least one subset from A .

We present some open problems for such games, most of them related to games on graphs, when X is the set of edges of a complete graph.